The device which is to be used for buoying and protecting his body was completed some weeks ago.

Thrown Through a Plate Glass Window.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Yesterday afternoon a couple of drunken loafers ran in front of E. Miller's [illegible], 21 Michigan street, Cleveland, Ohio. One of the pair had in his hand a revolver with which he was toying. A couple of other drunken men happened along about the same time and stopped in front of the pair. The quartet bandied words with each other and soon came to blows. In the course of the row one of the combatants picked up his opponent and flung him bodily through a large plate glass window. The crash was followed by the hasty retreat of those on the outside. The one who had been put through the window landed on the head of his back on a table. He quickly [illegible] to his feet but little hurt, and started from the neighborhood in considerable haste. The police patched up the big gap in the window, and are also in search of the man who broke the window.

A Female Smuggler Arrested.

[illegible], Aug. 14.—Federal authorities here to-day [illegible] and other wearing apparel in the possession of Mrs. L. E. Parish, on the ground that they had been imported in defiance of the customs laws. The woman has made twenty trips across the [illegible] by her own confession, to purchase her dresses from the nobility, and has succeeded in having trunks containing them passed free of duty, offering as an explanation that they were a portion of her personal wearing apparel. The authorities here assert that the case is not an isolated one, and in addition to the others have sworn out a warrant for her arrest on the ground of perjury.

Rufus Hatch on the Northern Pacific.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Rufus Hatch yesterday, speaking of the prospects of the Northern Pacific, said: "How can it help being a great success when it will have six states and territories with no competition for business. There are Washington, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, Oregon and Dakota, where it will have no competition. Then it has nothing that would make any road a success. It has 43,000,000 acres of land belonging to its line and that is all worth something. The Illinois Central road only had about 2,000,000 acres behind it and was worth it. The Northern Pacific has got more than twenty times as much."

Striking Operators Call Upon General Eckert.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—At noon a committee of six striking operators, formerly employed by the Western Union, waited on General Eckert and asked for an interview, which was granted. It is not known what proposition they [illegible] to advance.

The [illegible] that they represent the [illegible] operators, the [illegible] operators of [illegible] in the employ of the Western Union Company, [illegible] weakening on the part of the brotherhood. Their [illegible] was to inquire on what terms the men would be taken back into the service. General Eckert said he would recommend that those now out [illegible] to their respective superintendents, as to the terms for the resumption of work.

The Western Union Makes a Threat.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The Western Union Telegraph Company sent a letter to Mayor Edson, setting forth the [illegible] by the [illegible] and notifying him that they will bring suit against the city for damages. The mayor has conferred with the superintendent of police as to the means to prevent further cutting of wires. The superintendent informed the mayor that special instructions had been given the captains of the several precincts of the city and that no effort will be spared to detect and arrest all guilty of tampering with wires.

Michigan Prohibitionists.

DETROIT, Aug. 15.—The prohibition state convention met to-day at Grand Rapids. They voted to raise $10,000 as a campaign fund, indorsed the platform of the national convention at Chicago, declared in favor of constitutional and statutory prohibition of the manufacture of liquor as a beverage, arraigned the republican party for bad faith in not submitting the question to the people, and declared that party incompetent to deal with the liquor question.

Tilden Scheming for the Nomination.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The Times' Washington special says: Conferences are being held daily at Greystone between Tilden and his trusted lieutenants, and the sage of Gramercy park is putting his best foot forward to carry next year's convention. This discovery has led McDonald with alarm, and he is doing his best to pick up the broken pieces in his [illegible].

W. L. and C. C. Exposition.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—Major E. Burke, a letter to the board of management of the World's Industrial and Cotton Centennial Exposition, accepting the position of director, [illegible] suggests the [illegible] of an auxiliary committee in each parish of Louisiana, and in every state of the union, that there may be a complete report and representation of the exposition. He also hopes that foreign governments and people may be interested in the exposition.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The annual report of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad issued to-day shows [illegible] for the fiscal year ending [illegible] net income, $14,490,000. Dividends 7 per cent. on preferred stock, and 7 per cent. on common stock paid, leaving a surplus of $[illegible]. This adds to the surplus of the past [illegible] the total [illegible] the credit of the income account at $[illegible].

More About the Failures.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—D. M. Dowling, the second member of the firm of Geo. Wm. Ballou & Co., and head of the Boston house, left for New York this evening. A. B. Weeks, one member of the firm, is ill at Brooklyn and knew nothing of the failure until told by his friends. The Boston business is said to be thoroughly sound with no danger of a collapse. It is not believed here that any other house will be affected by the suspension.

Competing Ordinance Accepted.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, held here to-day, it was decided to accept the [illegible] ordinance making the terminus of the [illegible] in this city on Polk street; and it was also decided to enter upon the immediate erection of the depot building, to cost $2,000,000, covering the block bounded by Third and Fourth avenues and Polk and Taylor streets.

SPORTING NOTES.

ROSS WINS THE FIRST HEAT.

WATKINS, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The first trial heat in the professional boat race was won by Ross, Lee 2d, Courtney 3d, Plaisted 4th and Gaudaur last. The latter [illegible] length in the rear of Ross. The crowd howled in disappointment, as it was too evident that this would shut Courtney out of the second trial heat, and so out of any contest with Hanlan. It would have looked like a clear put up job if Courtney hadn't claimed a second, place on account of [illegible] foul. It is not decided yet by the referee and judges whether to allow the foul.

WATKINS, N. Y., Aug. 15.—In the second trial heat of professionals Hanlan won in 11 minutes and 56 seconds, Hosmer a length off 2d, Teemer 3d, Ten Eyck 4th. Sheriden in the rear.

STOCKS RALLY.

A More Hopeful Tone in Wall Street—Western Union Fluctuates.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Large numbers of persons thronged the visitors' gallery at the stock exchange this morning, expecting to see the scenes of yesterday repeated. Western Union stock, which closed at 74 yesterday, dropped to 72¾ at the opening of the market to-day. It was feared railroad stocks would suffer a similar decline, but they opened at a slight advance on the closing figures of yesterday, and soon Western Union rallied and sold at 74¼, but shortly declined to 73. Several brokers expressed the opinion that no failure would occur to-day, and that the feverish feeling would subside before the close of the day's business. Others, not so sanguine, found encouragement in the firmer feeling on 'change, but thought it more than possible that the improved condition was temporary, and feared that the day might bring forth disastrous results. Officers of the stock exchange thought there was foundation for hope and encouragement in the present outlook. Ballou & Co. have not yet prepared a statement of their condition. They expect, however, to have it completed some time during the day.

ANOTHER FAILURE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The failure of E. C. Stedman & Co. is announced. The firm has made an assignment to John McGinnis, Jr. Liabilities are small, and the firm owes no one but its customers. The failure is due to a dishonest clerk, who took securities and hypothecated them for his own speculations on a bull-ions account.

The Stedman failure has had little effect on share speculation thus far. Prices are fractionally lower from the highest point of the day. No stocks have been [illegible] under rule for their account.

[illegible] Weeks, composing the firm of George and William Ballou & Co., the bankers who failed yesterday, filed an assignment to-day for the benefit of their creditors, in the county clerk's office, to Theo. M. Nevins. No preferences are stated.

ANOTHER TUMBLE.

WALL STREET, 3 P. M.—Stocks are weaker. Prices fell off from 1¼ to 2¾, Western Union and Northern Pacific being prominent in the decline. At one time there was considerable pressure to sell the former, and stock touched 72⅛, within ⅛ of the lowest of the day. Just before the close a rally of ¼ to ⅜ took place, the latter on Western Union, which sold up to 72¾.

SLADE AND MITCHELL.

The Maori Visits His Training Ground—Where the Fight Will Occur.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Yesterday Slade and his party left for Independence to look at the training ground selected for the Maori, and located at the farm of A. C. Young, half a mile north of Independence. This house was formerly the residence of E. M. Valiot star route notoriety. Slade expressed himself as very much pleased with his quarters and he at once took up his abode on the farm, where he will remain until the 11th of September, the day of the fight. Madden and Mitchell spent the day in the city. They have not yet looked at the ground selected for them, but probably will to-morrow. The general agreement as to the locality for the fight is that it shall come off within 200 miles of Kansas City.

WHERE THE FIGHT WILL OCCUR.

One of the parties to the affair acknowledged that Vinita, one of the most flourishing towns in the Indian territory, has been definitely settled upon as the scene of the encounter. There is no law against prize fighting in the territory, and if the federal law only takes cognizance of assaults with deadly weapons, it is believed that interference on the part of the United States authorities will be avoided. There is a fair ground at Vinita, and an amphitheater with a seating capacity of 10,000, and two railways run through the town. It is believed a larger crowd of people will be present than has ever before gathered to witness a prize fight, and the projectors of the affair, as well as the participants, anticipate making a mint of money out of the enterprise.

EFFORTS TO HAVE THE FIGHT STOPPED.

TOPEKA, Ks., Aug. 15.—The federal officers here claim to have advices to the effect that the Slade-Mitchell prize fight is to be fought just across the Indian territory line south of Baxter springs, Kansas, and that efforts are being made to have the United States officers on hand to stop it.

ON WIND RIVER.

The President and Party Enjoying Themselves Hugely—Plenty of Game.

CAMP BISHOP, forks of the Wind river, Wyo., Aug. 14.—The president and party are encamped at the forks of Wind river, upon the same grounds occupied last year by General Sheridan. The camp was then named Camp Bishop, in honor of Mr. H. R. Bishop of New York, who was a member of the general's party, and the name has been retained for the present camp. Here we remain to-day for the double purpose of affording an opportunity for the various members of the party to hunt and fish and to rearrange the pack loads. This is our supply camp, where we have to take on the packs, rations and forage enough to last through to the park. At the present moment, while your correspondent is writing this dispatch, all the members of the party have gone out either to hunt or fish.

THE PRESIDENT FISHES FOR TROUT.

The president, who is in fine health and spirits, has gone on horseback with General Sheridan, about three miles up the main fork of the Wind river, wrongly called by the people of this country, "De Noir creek," where last evening the president caught several fine trout. The march from Camp Stager to this point was up through the beautiful scenery of the upper Wind river, where gorgeously colored and fantastically shaped mountains are relieved by those which are covered with grassy slopes and timbered ravines. The weather is delightful and the march was thoroughly enjoyed by everybody. Three antelope, a bear, several grouse and a rabbit were brought into camp last evening by the hunters of the party, so there is at present no immediate danger of starvation for anybody. The results of to-day's sport will have to remain over for to-morrow's chronicles.

BANGS' BRIDE.

A Short Honeymoon and a Mysterious Separation—A Woman who has Twice Been the Bride of a Week.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The Tribune has the following in relation to the marriage of F. C. Bangs to Alice Singer Lagrove, which has just been dissolved by mutual consent. Bangs had been supposed, by his friends, to be a confirmed bachelor, for he has passed forty-eight years of his life without falling a victim to the designs of the fair creatures, who, for the last quarter of a century, have never been far distant from one of the handsomest actors on the American stage. Alice Singer Lagrove, whom he married with much display, the knot being tied by Henry Ward Beecher, is a woman of about thirty-five years of age, a daughter of Isaac M. Singer, the sewing machine manufacturer, and her past life has not been altogether free from matrimonial estrangements. Some ten years ago she married a Frenchman, named Lagrove, who left her after a marriage life of seven days. She had a daughter by Lagrove, who is still living, but it was only about a year ago that she obtained a divorce from this husband of a week. She has inherited about $100,000 from her father's estate and lived with her mother, Mrs. Merritt, in Brooklyn.

ALICE "POPS THE QUESTION."

Some months ago Alice saw Bangs enacting the part of Chateau Renaud, in the Corsican Brothers. She was so much struck with his appearance that she sent him a note begging him to call upon her, which, after some hesitation, he did. He found her to be rather attractive in appearance, but overdressed to an extent which made a disagreeable first impression.

She showed herself so ardently in love with the good-looking actor, however, that his vanity was tickled, and when, after a short acquaintance, she begged him to marry her, he eventually consented, but not without telling her that he had pressing liabilities, and that his widowed sister and her family were altogether dependent on him. In order to overcome these scruples she insisted on his taking a gift from her, $1000 with which he was to pay the more pressing of his debts. Bangs took the money and paid the sister, and with the remainder bought some furniture for his sister, Mrs. G. W. Johnston, of Philadelphia.

LOCKED OUT OF HIS ROOM.

Wednesday, the pair of middle-aged lovers were married and entered upon their honeymoon. In a short time, however, Bangs, according to the statement of his counsel, A. J. Rogers, made a discovery which shocked and surprised him. He took only a few days to consider his position and made up his mind, and before his wedded life was one week old he had left his wife and resumed a bachelor existence. Still as much in love as ever with her handsome husband, Mrs. Bangs made such piteous appeals to him through her lawyer, that he consented, to save appearances, to return and live in the same house with her, but on the distinct understanding that they should occupy different rooms. This was agreed to, and for a day or two all went well. Then Mrs. Bangs' mother, needing change of air, her son-in-law took her down to Coney Island, and remained to take care of her for three days. Upon his return home he found the door of his apartment locked by his wife's orders, and all his effects removed to her own rooms. He lost no time, but telephoned for a carriage from the nearest livery stable, and insisted on his personal belongings being given to him, and in a few hours he had left the house and was on his way to New York, where he re-engaged his old rooms at the Sturtevant house, and where, for the last three weeks, he has lived in comparative seclusion.

Religious and Secular Education in London.

Mr. Mundella made an interesting speech on the religious effect of the educational bill, this day week, at the Crystal Palace, when distributing the prizes for scriptural knowledge to the children of the London board schools. In all the London board schools the bible is read, with such explanations and religious instruction as are suited to the capacity of the children, and but one complaint has been made by parents on that head since Mr. Mundella became vice president, in 1880, a complaint by a father, which, owing to the mother's remonstrance, was not persisted in, and yet these London board schools deal with 500,000 children. On the passing of the education act in 1870, only 2,000,000 children were under education in England and Scotland; now there are 4,700,000, and almost all—Mr. Mundella said "practically all"—these children receive religious instruction in the board schools or denominational schools in which they are educated. A better test still of the effect of education on religious teaching is the increase, so far as it can be tested, in attendance on Sunday schools. There are now more than 4,000,000 children under Sunday school teaching; and as the infants do not attend the Sunday schools, that is a larger attendance of children above the age of infants in Sunday schools than there is in the day schools. In other words, the increase of secular education, instead of displacing, has largely increased religious education.—London Spectator, July 21.

PACIFIC COAST.

Preparing to Receive Oregon Commandery Knights Templar.

MEXICAN TROOPS REPULSED BY THE APACHES.

Frank Strong Wins the Trot at the Bay District Park—A San Francisco Dangerously Wounded by Footpads.

A Roundabout Way to Reach California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The practical working of the restriction act for Chinese claiming to have been residents of the United States prior to its going into effect are said by Chinese merchants to operate unjustly. A case in point, passing under the observation of an OREGONIAN correspondent, is here related. The steamer City of Tokio, on her last trip from Hongkong, brought a number of Chinamen who were unable to purchase tickets for San Francisco, on account of their failure to be identified at the former port as residents of this city prior to the going into effect of the restriction act. They obviated the difficulty by paying $10 additional and purchasing a ticket to British Columbia, in this city. Arrived here they were not allowed to land, but were transferred to the George W. Elder, upon the assurance of Capt. Hays and to the customs officers that he would bring them back again on the next trip. For this accommodation the captain insisted on the Chinamen putting up security for their passage on the way back, which was done. In the meantime it is expected that their friends will procure the necessary proof on filing them to land upon American territory. Should they fail in doing this they will [illegible] turned to China. As the matter now stands Capt. Hayward cannot permit these celestials to set foot on any but foreign soil.

Steamer Movements.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The repairs of the Queen of the Pacific are progressing slowly. She is being thoroughly overhauled, and it is now proposed to sink a large outer dam under her stern so that the pin of her propeller may be altered without the necessity of going into the dry dock. It is expected that with this improvement her speed will be very materially increased.

The steamer Eureka has been taken off the Alameda route and will hereafter run between this port and Los Angeles.

Shortly before the sailing of the new steamer Mariposa for Honolulu, on her first trip, her coal heavers and firemen struck for an increase of wages, so that Claus Spreckles was obliged to accede to their demand. The steamer returned from her trip yesterday, and this morning her entire force of coal heavers and firemen were discharged and replaced by Chinamen.

Preparations for the Reception of Oregon Commandery.

[Special.]—The headquarters of Oregon commandery Knights Templar, at Saratoga hall, are being handsomely decorated. A reception hall will be located in the theater, while an extensive dormitory is being fitted up in adjoining rooms. The front of the building is hung with streamers and garlands, and immediately above the entrance is a large Maltese cross, with a Masonic inscription, and lettered, "Headquarters of Oregon commandery." Along the windows of the second story festoons and wreaths, joined by long arched rows of evergreens, extend to the eastern end of the front. The theater itself is profusely decorated with banners and the usual Masonic insignia, in addition to a liberal display of bunting, wreaths and stringers. Everything will be in readiness on the arrival of northern knights. Some misunderstanding exists here as to the exact date of their arrival, and numerous inquiries were made at general headquarters during the present week. It is now definitely announced that they will arrive here on Saturday.

Dangerously Wounded by a Footpad.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—Carl York, a German musician, aged 65 years, returning home at 2 o'clock in the morning, was attacked by a footpad, who ordered him to throw up his hands. Relieving him of watch and money the robber ordered him to move on and not look around. The musician did so, but curiosity to see the sort of man who had robbed him induced him to disobey the footpad's instructions, and the moment he did so the robber fired, putting two bullets into him, and then escaped. The assaulted man's injuries are believed to be fatal. The robbery took place in a section known in early days as "Barbary Coast," and which, although in the very heart of the city, is still considered a dangerous locality after midnight.

Frank Strong Wins the Big Trot.

[Special.]—The trotting race at the Bay District course to-day was won by the bay gelding Frank Strong, by a head; time, 2:21, 2:22 and 2:20. Frank Strong was favorite in the pools, selling for more than either Allen Roy or Big L. z. Barney B. also trotted. Stories of the winner having trotted a half mile in 1:04, and a mile in 2:14, had been told of him, and his first public trot was looked for with great interest by turfmen. His performance to-day shows him to be a wonderful trotter. He was never headed in any heat, and never seemed pushed, apparently trotting at his ease, taking the outside of the track from choice, except in the last heat, when Roy lapped him for a couple of hundred yards.

More Immigrants for the Northwest.

[Special.]—The arrivals of immigrants to-day from eastern and western states were unusually heavy. New settlers were sufficiently numerous to fill five cars, and on their arrival here were distributed among up-town hotels, showing that a majority of them do not propose remaining in this state. Quite a large number of emigrants sailed this morning on the Dakota most of whom hail from Colorado and New Mexico.

Remarkable Vitality.

Charles Knudsen, Norwegian, second mate of the brig Seawolf, was killed last night by a yard locomotive in the Southern Pacific railroad depot. The man was literally crushed to pieces, but notwithstanding, lived for an hour. This vitality seemed wonderful. Hospital physicians state that the chest was so torn that the respiratory organs were visible.

Decision Sustained.

A committee on arbitration have sustained the decision of the tea inspector, who, on July 3, condemned 100 chests of tea consigned to a Chinese firm in this city as adulterated and unfit for use. If not shipped out of the country within the specified six months the tea will be destroyed by the government.

First Detachment from Iowa.

The first detachment of the grand commandery of Iowa arrived here last night. The grand commander says that others from his state will arrive in a few days to the number of 200.

Will Return with Coolies.

The steam collier Wallington is loading freight for Hongkong, and will return with a load of Chinese for the coal mine at Departure bay.

Lepers in Hawaii.

Statements are published showing that the number of lepers admitted to the asylum in the Hawaiian islands between the years 1866 and 1877 was 1[illegible], of whom 666 were females and children.

Cannot be Tried Again.

The supreme court has decided that Lloyd L. Majors, murderer of Renowden near Los Gatos, having been tried and condemned to life imprisonment, is "civilly dead, and cannot be tried again on the same charge."

Shipping Intelligence.

Departed—Steamer Dakota, Morse, Victoria etc; ship Two Brothers, Heyden, Port Townsend; bark Quickstep, Jacobsen, Port Townsend; barkentine Portland, Donnelly, Portland.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

News Notes from Walla Walla.

WALLA WALLA, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Fire broke out this noon in the Chinese section of the city cemetery, and spreading to the high grass did much damage before brought under control. Many plats and graves were destroyed, besides a large lot of fencing. The fire originated from Chinamen cooking for departed countrymen.

Buyers here are offering sixty cents for wheat although the general belief is that when the market opens seventy cents per bushel will be the basis. The three flouring mills here, in connection with the large one at Prescott of the Messrs. Isaacs, will require 1,200,000 bushels of grain this season.

Ms. or Reus, well known here, left to-day for a two weeks' camping expedition on the Blue mountains. He is accompanied by his family and Mr. Bales of the Stine house.

TO THE NORTH.

The Trip of H. M. S. Mutine to Sitka—The Admiral's Movements.

VICTORIA, Aug. 14.—H. M. S. Mutine, with Admiral Lyons, returned last evening from the cruise north. She left Esquimalt the 28th ult. for Sitka, and on the way visited Vancouver's Island and Fort Rupert; here the admiral landed and interviewed the people; the officers went shooting but there was no sport; thence on to McLaughlin bay, via Fitzhugh channel and Laura passage, where were heard complaints of steamers passing without calling. Next, Lowe's inlet, passing through magnificent scenery; met steamer Grappler and McKenzie and the steamer Otter; next morning left the inlet, and reached Metlakatla in the afternoon; directly after anchoring, two small steamers left the harbor, gaily decorated with flags, one carrying a brass band, the musicians dressed in a regular form of blue, with yellow facings and braid caps; [illegible] the music was astounding, and it was three times successively repeated; one of these steamers contained the well-known Missionary Duncan and his chaplain and suite; the other steamer, which had the band, conveyed Bishop Ridley, and his chaplain; the bishop came on board, and was personally received by the admiral and dined. Duncan and suite was received by the officers, and subsequently by the admiral. Duncan and the bishop

In the afternoon a number of children [illegible] the [illegible] visited the ship and were pleased and astonished; the general remark was that the children were intelligent and remarkably well behaved; next day started for Fort Simpson, having a clergyman of the church of England for Wrangel; arrived in the evening and landed alongside the pier and took in wood, fearing the coal would run short; left for Wrangel; anchoring north of Mary island; here obtained a number of curiosities—carved wood and bone work, and knives, blankets and skins of various sorts; there are many houses but few inhabitants, and the place is dirty and dreary. The American representative was received on board and

DINED WITH THE ADMIRAL.

Off the next morning, and arrived at Sitka, where the weather was rainy and unpleasant for a considerable period; here staid a couple of hours; the admiral landed with some officers, and visited the Greek church, accompanied by a Greek priest; this church is the attraction of the place; the interior is decorated with the usual pictures, altar, etc., of the Greek church; went back to the ship for the return; anchored off Masset, north of Queen Charlotte island, where there is a post of the Hudson Bay Company; the admiral and a few officers landed and visited; on to cape Scott and Alert bay; here some went fishing and sealing; got a few fish, but no seal; the scenery is grand; each side of the banks rise to a great hight, and from the base to the summit are covered with beautiful trees; the water is clear, and here some splendid rapids form a continuous and lovely picture; witnessed a native blanket dance, which was neither pleasant to the eye nor agreeable to the nose; made out her anchorage to the northward of Comox; up anchor and arrived at Esquimalt last evening, after enjoying a pleasant trip, and the officers expecting a well earned comparative rest.

Mexican Troops Repulsed by Apaches.

TOMBSTONE, Aug. 15.—A special courier from the headquarters of the troops operating against the Indians in Oposura, Sonora, Mex., says the Apaches made an attack on the village of Nacori, where Lieut. Morena is stationed with a small picket of state troops, killing five of the picket guard. At daylight next morning Morena marched out with twenty men, and found the savages to the number of 150 men strongly entrenched, and was compelled to retreat. He made a second attempt, accompanied by armed villagers, but, his ammunition being exhausted, he made a second retreat. Several Indians were killed and Morena was slightly wounded. After the skirmish the savages had things all their own way, and drove off a large herd of cattle.

ENGLAND.

CAREY'S CONFIDENTIAL LETTERS.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The confidential letters written by the murdered informer, Carey, to his solicitor, while he was confined in jail, have been published, and make a remarkable and unexpected showing. Their whole tenor utterly repudiates his leadership in the more aggressive Irish movement, and he strenuously denies that he in any way was instigated to the Phœnix Park murder. He says it is incredible that he should have for a moment connected himself in any such agitation. It would, he said, be impossible.

PARLIAMENT PROCEEDINGS.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—In the house of commons tonight, the bankruptcy bill and national debt bill passed to the third reading, and the tramways Irish bill passed to second reading. The last-named bill provides for government guarantee of £1,100,000 for opening up of the western district of Ireland by light steam tramways. The house agreed to the proposal that £100,000 church surplus fund be applied to immigration purposes. Trevelyn, chief secretary for Ireland, assented to the suggestion that half the sum be devoted to emigration purposes. The grant to emigrants should, in certain cases, be raised to £8 per head.

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 15.—The Italian envoy at Tangier, Morocco, has lowered the flag on the consulate, and the inhabitants are, in consequence, in a state of great panic. There is an Italian squadron in the harbor, in readiness to support the demands of Italy.

Railroad Earnings.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Of sixty-four railroads, whose July statement of earnings is published in the Financial Chronicle this morning, two show a decrease as compared with July of last year, the most important being Manitoba, which heads the list with a loss of $104,580 on the business of the month, Wabash following with $202,426 in earnings for seven months, ending July 31. Of sixty-two roads, that aggregate $156,080,770, thirteen show a decrease amounting to $19,040,802, which makes the net increase over last year $1,286,979, on an increased mileage of about 4000 miles. Among the decreases are found the Central Pacific, $611,170; Illinois Central, $233,474, and Union Pacific, $198,244.

A Young Lawyer's Suicide.

DENVER, Aug. 11.—T. B. McCutcheon, a young lawyer of Evans, in this state, committed suicide today. About noon he entered the store of an acquaintance, speaking pleasantly to the clerk, and passed into a back room. Attracted by a strange noise, the clerk rushed in and discovered McCutcheon running around the room with his throat cut. He used a large knife, kept for cutting meat, which he placed against a sack of potatoes and then ran his throat against it. Not succeeding to his satisfaction [illegible] this, he tried to use his pocket knife. On being prevented he fought desperately to again get possession of the butcher knife. He died an hour later. He was a man of ability and leaves a young widow. The motive is unknown.

One Hundred and Ten Years Old.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Mrs. Mary Lynch died at Scranton, Pa., yesterday, in her 110th year. She probably was the oldest person in the United States of whose age there was accurate data. She was born in Sussex county, N. J., in March, 1774. Her father, Jacob Brunswick, served in the revolution, and her husband, James Lynch, was a soldier in the war of 1812. She was the mother of eight children, four of whom are living, the youngest being 75 years of age. She retained her mental faculties in a remarkable degree, used no glasses, and refused to use a cane when walking. Her health has always been good, and three days before her death she refused to eat, and lay down and calmly passed to rest.

Courting Death in the Rapids.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Charles Truesdale created something of a sensation yesterday at Niagara falls by rowing through the rapids from the American shore, starting from near the head of the hydraulic canal and landing at the upper end of Goat island. This feat of Truesdale is evidence of the craze inspired by Captain Webb's rash and fatal swim through the whirlpool rapids. The local papers at Niagara are daily publishing offers and appointments of cranks to do all sorts of mad feats in Niagara river, and it is more than possible that an effort for notoriety may lead some of them to throw away their useless lives.

Lynched by Cowboys.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 11.—A Republican Canyon City special says: L. E. Watkins, charged with cattle stealing, was forcibly taken from the sheriff about midnight last night, by armed cowboys, and shot. The body was then hanged from the timbers of a bridge in the suburbs of the town. Watkins was returning, successful, from Salida whence he had been to secure bonds for his appearance before the grand jury. The whole country is terribly excited, and measures have already been taken to apprehend the murderers.

What Gould Says.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Jay Gould being asked yesterday if a committee of the strikers called upon the officers of the company, would they treat with them, replied: "We are ready to receive a committee of our old employes, but not if they represent the brotherhood." "Will you compromise with them?" was asked. "You had better see Eckert about that."

Killed in a Thunder Storm.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 11.—During a heavy thunder storm to-day three men—Robert Miller and William Miller, brothers, and Ernest Smith—were instantly killed by lightning. They had taken refuge under a tree. Four other persons were injured. The telephone Exchange was set on fire and several houses were damaged.

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC.

What C. P. Huntington Says About the Sale of the Stock.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—C. P. Huntington said yesterday: "Crocker has not sold one share of the Central Pacific for twelve months. The last share he sold was in June, 1882. I now have not sold one. I have it in charge myself. We are not selling the stock. It matters little to us who the stock belongs to if those who are selling it on the street, so long as the company pays its dividends and coupons. We have just paid one dividend and have every reason to believe the next dividend will be the same and will be paid in February. The outlook for business on the Central Pacific is good; in fact, the Central Pacific never was in as healthy a condition as to-day. The road has nearly all steel rails, and has about completed its construction work. Its fixed charges are less than they were last year, and we are reducing operating expenses very considerably. Our net earnings are very satisfactory. Indeed, I look for $1,000,000 increase in July in the net earnings over July last year. The apparent shrinkage in the gross earnings for the first half of this year was due to the fact that last year we were carrying, among other things, construction material for nearly 400 miles of road east of El Paso. The rates for carrying this freight were at about cost so that I do not really tell on the net profits at all. The railroad expenses will be less this year. The business and outlook of the country west is not as bad as many suppose. Competition is not hurting us much. Of course, instead of two groups of roads to the coast there are three. I know but little about Gould's stocks. Gould, however, is a clear-headed man, and if his stocks are lower it is evidence of his strength rather than of his weakness. He is probably indifferent to the weakness of his stocks. I think, however the time is soon coming when Gould will step in and take his stocks at figures which will give him a large profit, on the supposition that he sold out at much higher figures, which he probably did. Governor Stanford is in London, but intends to leave for Paris in a few days. His health is improving very much. The report that he is selling Central Pacific is untrue. The governor is still a large holder of the stock and has a firm belief in the stability of the property."

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP.

The Enterprise of a Newspaper Correspondent—A Scheme to Kidnap the President.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A Tribune special from Camp Buffalo Lake, Wy. T., of the 10th inst., says: When President Arthur was awake at 5 o'clock this morning he calmly rubbed his eyes and endeavored to persuade himself that he was really in Fort Washakie. All around outside was bustle and activity. Persons were flying in all directions to complete the final preparations for a ride in saddle of many days among the mountains. Every one about the fort knows well that General Sheridan always starts promptly at 6 o'clock in the morning and stops at noon for the day. He never varies this programme for any one, except that he sometimes starts earlier, so as to reach his destination exactly at noon. Shortly before 6 o'clock this morning Charles Campbell, the famous guide, with his train of pack animals, an Indian guide and ten men, appeared in readiness for the journey.

The presidential party had breakfast and were saying good-bye to Secretary Lincoln, who will remain four days at Washakie, when an incident occurred which caused general consternation. Although it was rapidly approaching 6 o'clock there it was past 7 in Chicago, when a courier came up with a dispatch in haste, addressed to General Sheridan, from his constant adviser in Chicago. The message was handed to the president, who swore, actually swore. It is stated that the Chicago Tribune had published a report in full of the proceedings of the day before, with an account of the proposed issuance of government bonds to Indians. General Sheridan at once gave orders to conduct a strict search of the camp and sent the correspondent if found upon the reservation. Up to the present writing the intruder has not been found. Owing to this circumstance the party was a little late in starting, but arrived at Buffalo lake very nearly at noon.

There are those who predict that an effort will be made by Indians or bands of robbers, which are thick around here now, to seize Mr. Arthur, carry him into the mountains and hold him for a ransom. The oldest stage driver the Tribune correspondent has met is certain that an attempt will be made, and thinks if conducted rightly that it will succeed.

A GAMBLER'S CRIME.

He Murders His Mistress and Kills Himself.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 11.—A Tribune Pueblo special says: A horrible tragedy was enacted in this city this morning. Ten days ago a man named Frank Hutchinson arrived in this city, accompanied by his professed wife. Hutchinson was a born gambler. The woman obtained work at the Tivoli theater as a waiter girl and everything ran smoothly until a few days ago, when Hutchinson went on a protracted spree, spending all his own and the girl's money. Early this morning the girl was seen to jump from a second-story window of the building where they roomed. Blood was streaming from a deep wound in her throat. Two policemen passing saw her fall, and while one supported the woman the other ran up stairs, kicked in the door and found Hutchinson stretched on the floor, dead, with his throat cut from ear to ear. In the right hand was grasped a razor, from which the blood was dripping.

It transpired at the coroner's inquest that the two had quarreled the night before and the woman threatened to leave him. This morning he went into the room and found the woman still up, sitting [illegible]. After a few words [illegible] Hutchinson grabbed a water pitcher and struck the woman over the head and then grasped her head, took a razor lying on a table and slashed at her throat. Breaking away, the woman jumped through the window, as above stated. Though able to testify before the coroner, she cannot live. Her real name is said to be Irene Davenport, alias Pomeroy. She has relatives living in Muscatine, Ia.

Two Stages Robbed—An Express Messenger Killed.

TUCSON, A. T., Aug. 11.—A Star special from Florence says: The northbound stage was robbed between Riverside and Pioneer. Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messenger, John Collins, was killed, and the driver, named Gillida, was seriously wounded. Both of the stage horses were killed. Three thousand two hundred dollars in treasure was taken.

MORMON EMISSARIES.

The Way They are Doing Their Work in the South.

[illegible], Aug. 11.—The agents of Mormonism are actively at work in Carroll, Forsyth, Campbell and other counties. Their methods are so peaceably done that people are seldom aware of their presence. Their plan is to make low-toned ones, and when enough are brought over to their views, to hold a camp-meeting quietly, [illegible] converts [illegible], and in time depart, to unite for Texas or Utah. Several families in [illegible] are known to have taken this course lately. In one of the [illegible] places there are a great many ignorant people with no church relationship [illegible] from Mormon [illegible]. They are easily approached by Mormon [illegible], and are admirably suited [illegible] get a reception from them. This is however applies to [illegible] citizens, who are not aware of the danger of which they are surrounded. This is shown by an instance developed this week. The Franklin News published the following: "There are Mormon missionaries in this county—what is worse, they find fools who will listen to their foul discourses. It is presumed, however, that they are not received in any respectable family." The editor soon found out that he had made a mistake, for in the last issue of his paper he said: "Of course we had no reference to those who are ignorant of the corrupt practices of the Mormons." The fact that Mormons should have so far won their way to be careful how he spoke about them is startling enough, and shows that more something is [illegible] spoken. [illegible] is not in the [illegible] of [illegible] will be [illegible].

BENJAMIN'S ECONOMY.

The Shah of Persia Wants Pay for the Minister's Reception.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—A Tribune special from Washington says: A second letter from Benjamin, the new American minister to Persia, is not quite so much like the blare of a trumpet as his first. A few days ago a public reception [illegible] in a glowing description of Oriental magnificence both our minister [illegible] on the occasion of Mr. Benjamin's entry into Teheran. Among other things, he was presented with a fine horse from his majesty's stables. The secret appears in Mr. Benjamin's dispatch No. 2, from which it appears that the expensive escort was sent for the above high exhalation [illegible] to see [illegible]. The [illegible] few compliments on the efforts of the rulers of the country to make him feel at home. The high cockalorum, however, soon proceeded to business and for a time our minister was unable to understand what his courtesy was driving at. He declared that his royal master, the brother of the sun, moon, and stars, had been so lofty and made things pleasant for Mr. Benjamin, and of course the latter would make generous return. It took our minister some time to acquire a full understanding of the situation, but he was finally enabled to, and learned that the gift of the country wanted in plain Persian, a fair equivalent was wanted for the horse and a number of the other expenses of his reception. Mr. Benjamin tells the state that the reception was a splendid affair, but he doesn't exactly see where he is to get a surplus of the salary of $5000 for many such evidences of sincere friendship for his native country.

LIMA, via GALVESTON, Aug. 11.—It is now generally believed El Comercio's [illegible] known that General Caceres has solicited and obtained from General Lynch a safe conduct to Lima, and is expected to arrive with a three [illegible]. The complete submission of Caceres' forces will be the condition of peace. The expected names of the minister of the Iglesias cabinet are current here in various papers, but are not fully confirmed.

THURSDAY MORNING, AUG. 16, 1883.

"THE NEW SOUTH."

"August 1 of the year 1." The expression is the Louisville Courier-Journal's, the interpretation of it, "the new calendar of the new south." Upon that day the great industrial exposition of Louisville was formally opened. The Louisville paper interpreted the event as the opening of a new era—the starting point for the south of a new career in a new civilization. It is something to hear southern men talking about a "new south," and boasting of an exhibit of the products of the industry of those "greasy mechanics, small-fisted farmers and mud-sills of society," so despised before the war, as an event which signalizes a new departure for the south upon a line of that higher development to which hitherto it has been a stranger.

The confession is highly interesting; not, however, because it furnishes the northern states with opportunity of boasting and of triumph, but because it affords an impressive lesson upon the march of events and the fulfillment of history. It shows once more, and by a most forcible illustration, how man is driven on by an inexorable and overwhelming power to the fulfillment of his destiny. The development of society proceeds according to the conditions that surround it, in conformity with inflexible laws. Men cannot stop it, and even their very efforts to stop it or to change its course, result, as in this case, in the more rapid consummation of nature's predestined ends. "Whosoever shall fall upon this stone shall be broken; but on whomsoever it shall fall it will grind him to powder."

The Louisville paper goes on to say: "The exposition is the result of an effort, clearly comprehended and systematically organized, to represent fairly and adequately the vast resources, as yet but partially developed, of that great territory which lies to the south of this point and which stretches from ocean to ocean. The misapprehensions which exist in the public mind concerning the industrial south are more unaccountable, if not as inexcusable as the misapprehension of the south political, which has led to so many serious mistakes and entailed such unnecessary suffering." It has been proved, so the Courier-Journal remarks to its southern readers, that cotton growing is only one of many industries congenial to, and profitable in, the south; that white labor can endure and flourish in the climate of the south; that the wide differences between the northern and southern people were caused by slavery and the lack of mechanical inventions in the south, both of which conditions have ceased; that experience has shown the practicability and profit of diversified agriculture in the south, and so on. Again: "We know something now of the true relation of labor to living. We have come through many tribulations, but we have been true to ourselves, true to the better instincts of our nature; we have come through labor to light, and are now ready, as a strong man, to run a race. This is the new south which we have asked the world to meet." The significance of many paragraphs in this great "exposition issue" of the Courier-Journal is perhaps even more noticeable than the above. For example:

> The stranger who is with us to-day shall be a stranger no longer. Warm southern hearts welcome him, cordial southern hands reach forth to clasp his, and at the altar of the material interests of a united people the great new south pledges itself to be an honorable, earnest competitor in the race for added glory, prosperity and renown.

Accompanying President Arthur was Secretary Lincoln. These words were addressed from the state of Abraham Lincoln's nativity to the son of that truest Kentuckian, that man of clearest vision, whose conscience took in the conditions of this transformation and whose conscience made him true to his perceptions of it amid the terrible throes and agonies of the civil war:

> Secretary Lincoln will please consider himself in the hands of his relations. There is a warm feeling for him in many a Kentucky heart that beats quicker at the thought of his great father, the illustrious son of the dark and bloody ground.

Other things are said more lightly but in the same spirit. Thus:

> You're in Kentucky to-day, beged sahs! and it shan't be our fault nor our sweethearts' fault if you don't come often and stay long. We turn over to you our houses and our horses, and the [illegible] the jug and the sugar and the ice and the mint. We even surrender to you the hip-pocket playthings with which we are wont sometimes to amuse ourselves and if you can't make yourselves at home and pass the time pleasantly may the Lord have mercy on our souls.

A class of gentlemen fortunately not now very numerous in the south receive this little mark of attention:

> Even our friend, the gentleman from away back at the very head waters of Bitter creek, has come down to mingle with us and drink of our waters to tone up his somewhat debilitated system, which is not yet fully attuned to the gentler notes of these piping times of peace. But his is a quiet mission; the smile he bears shames, with its brightness Edison's electric light, and he goes, recognizing the fitness of things, Bitter creek's representative pipes notes of the song of universal peace, prosperity and unity.

This is a "new south" indeed! And the best of it all is the development of its humanities, which the south itself now knows could not flourish in a civilization based on slave-driving. Free labor is peace, social and political, and it is prosperity too. It is in harmony with all the virtues—civility, honesty, benevolence and the golden rule. When we see how these things are brought about through war, we are prepared to understand Wordsworth when he says that "war is God's chief instrument for working out a pure intent; yes, carnage is his daughter."

NEXT YEAR'S RIVER WORK.

It is not too soon to consider what is to be done toward improving the channels of the Columbia and Willamette rivers next year. Indeed, a question of such great importance is at all times in order, and cannot be too much thought about or agitated. In an interview yesterday Capt. Powell, United States engineer, said that it is imperative that work shall be done at five points if the channel is to be kept clear. At Swan island below the city, the plan for permanent improvement adopted several years ago, ought in the main to be put into execution. Owing to the extension of Albina certain modifications will be necessary, but the general plan can easily be carried out at a cost of $60,000. At the head of Sauvie's island the work now half done should be completed. This will cost $25,000. In addition the training wall and shore protection should be extended to the mouth of the Willamette. This will cost $75,000. This work Capt. Powell thinks very important just at this time. The soft bank of the island is being rapidly impinged by the constant agitation of the waters by loop-steamers, which pass within a stone's cast of the shore. At the rate these banks are being washed away it will not be long before the channel will be filled up unless something is done to protect it. Indeed, there is danger that the whole upper point of the island will melt away leaving a vast shoal in its place. This danger has manifested itself very recently and is made urgent by the rapid increase in the navigation of the river. At St Helens, at Walker's island and at Martin's island the channel can be permanently deepened by concentration of the currents by a system of training walls and at each place the work will cost $75,000. These various items with $15,000 for contingencies foot up $325,000.

The small sum of $325,000—small in comparison with the value of Portland's real estate and the volume of Portland's business—will make a deep, even and permanent channel from the Columbia bar to the docks of Portland. Of course the commerce of the river can get along in a lame-duck fashion as it has done in the past, without these improvements, but if it is allowed to do so Portland will suffer a loss beside which $325,000 will be as nothing. It will be a loss affecting not only one year but many years, and may involve a loss of ocean commerce which no subsequent effort can ever regain. Our people ought to determine that the work shall be done and then go about raising the money. A good deal of aid could, we believe, by a proper effort be secured from the government and Portland ought to put up the balance. This matter should be talked about and thought about. One thing is certain, Portland must open the channels or they never will be opened.

Early this fall, before the assembling of congress, a public meeting should be held in this city to consider ways and means for doing the necessary river work. In the effort to secure aid from the government, the fact of a determination to help ourselves would be a strong help. Besides, eyes of the country will be upon us this fall and the justice of our appeals will be understood better than before. A delegate or delegates representing the board of trade should be sent to Washington to assist our representatives in congress, and all working together, we doubt not that an important share of the needed fund may be secured. And then the property holders and business men of the city should put their hands into their pockets deep down, and make up the sum required.

ABOUT HAWAIIAN SUGAR.

Says the San Francisco Merchant, organ of Mr Claus Spreckles:

> There are still a few writers for the press who cannot or will not get it through their woolly heads that the admission or non-admission of Hawaiian sugar into this country duty free, cannot affect the price of sugar in California. While we have to draw 100 or even 100 tons of sugar a year from other foreign countries which have to pay duty the cost in this city duty paid on that 1000 or 100 tons will fix the value of Hawaiian sugar, duty or no duty, in this market.

Grant this to be true, then why, since we can not get cheaper sugar by the treaty should $2,000,000 a year be taken from the United States treasury in remitted duties to enrich the Hawaiian planters and those who handle their sugar product? Restore the duty, and at least there will be a gain to the treasury of the United States; in other words, a gain to our own people.

The report made last March by the senate committee on finance upon the joint resolution to terminate the treaty with the islands contained the whole case. It was shown that the loss to the treasury in five and one-half years by the operation of this treaty had been $13,-71[illegible] 433, the whole of which had been a "largess to the sugar and rice operators in the Hawaiian islands."

But it is claimed that the treaty has made our trade with the islands very profitable. Organs of the sugar ring never tire of this clap-trap. The report of the committee above referred to punctures the pretense by showing that our entire exports of merchandise of all kinds to the islands during the whole period covered by the treaty have been less in value by the sum of $[illegible] than the duties lost during the same time. That is, the United States might have purchased with the money that would have come into the treasury all the goods that we have shipped to the islands and still have nearly $100,000 left. Allowing a profit of 25 per cent on the goods it will appear that for the sake of a business worth $3,258,328 the United States has thrown away duties to the amount of $10,717,436. Is this good business?

The San Francisco paper adds: "The result is and intention of the treaty was, during its existence to make the islands in everything but a name, a part and parcel of the United States, a county of the Pacific coast states without undertaking the expense, responsibility or inconvenience of having to govern them." This is sheer nonsense too. The islands are no more than before a part and parcel of the United States. The treaty gives us no claim upon them. Their independent sovereignty is precisely as it was before the treaty was enacted. Hear again what the senate finance committee say: "The foreign population dominate in public affairs and while a very reputable king appears in the foreground the power behind the throne is made up of sugar planters and sugar corporations. Whatever political changes may in time occur Hawaiian products must find their only market in the United States and this will forever secure friendly commercial relations. We have no interest in treating the Sandwich islands with greater favor than any other countries which sustain friendly commercial relations with us. It cannot concern us who the rulers of these islands may be as they never can be formidable for aggression being over two thousand miles distant from the Pacific coast, and if ever hostile the most powerful naval force would be sure to control their actions."

This report leaves nothing whatever to be said on any phase of the subject, except this one thing, namely terminate the treaty. It is an utterly fraudulent thing.

From Washington it is reported that the effort made last year to have the period for which whisky is allowed to remain in bond extended to five years, is to be renewed this coming session. Having failed in the effort to evade the law by the re-importation dodge, they revert to their original plan of getting congress to help them out of their scrape. In this they display their short-sightedness. If they got this privilege it would only postpone the evil day when their excessive stocks must be forced on the market. It would probably even aggravate the trouble by allowing them to go on adding to their stocks in bonded warehouses irrespective of consumption, and shutting their eyes to the fact that a day of final settlement must come some time. The original error, from the distillers point of view, was the extension of the bonded period from one to three years. That encouraged the accumulation of surplus stocks until now about ninety million gallons of whisky, or about six years consumption, are in bond. The tax on this is nearly all due before the close of the year. The owners will be wise to pay it, close out their stocks for what they can get and hereafter restrict their production to what the people will consume, which is, in all conscience, more than enough for the welfare of society.

More fine stock has been brought to Oregon during the past six months than in any previous year. Almost every steamer brings a bull of good breed or a few fine wool sheep. Our farmers see clearly the advantage of breeding from the best sources and are investing liberally in good blood. It is proper to repeat a suggestion made some weeks ago, that the annual fair of the State Agricultural Society at Salem be made a market where the stock of the country may be exhibited, and where farmers who desire the best grades of cattle, sheep, hogs, etc., may find them on sale. Oregon already has much good blood, and young bulls and rams are for sale by scores of men, but nobody knows where to find them and the lack of a general market is a hardship both to those who have stock for sale and to those who would be glad to buy. Certainly there could be no more proper place of exchange than the state fair. A stock yard in which all exhibits were for sale would be an attractive and interesting feature of the fair, directly in the line of its purpose as an agricultural exposition.

The progress of the Northern Pacific has so completely engrossed the attention of the people of Portland that the Oregon Short Line has been lost sight of for some time, and the announcement that track laying on the latter road reached a point fifteen miles from Boise City last week has created a gratifying surprise. The end of the track is now less than forty miles from the Oregon boundary, although over 100 miles of track will have to be laid before the Snake river is crossed. From its present terminus to Snake river the track will cross the Boise, Payette and Weiser rivers, all good sized streams, but easily bridged. With good weather between now and the 1st of January next it is highly probable that cars will be running to the Snake river crossing before the year closes.

Stanislaus leads in wheat production among the counties of California. Its total is set down at 3,500,000 centals. Colusa is next with 3,400,000, then San Joaquin with 2,7[illegible]0,000, followed by Butte with 2,600,000. The San Francisco grain exchange now estimates the whole crop of the state at 31,842,600 centals, or 1,592,400 tons.

The Western Union Company has now over 130,000 miles of telegraph lines and over 375,000 miles of wire. In other words its wire is long enough to go fifteen times around the world and to tie a good knot in the end of it. It has more than 12,000 offices, and it sent last year over 38,000,000 messages. Its receipts in 1882 were $17,114,165, and its profits more than $7,000,000. Ten years ago it had only in round numbers 65,000 miles of line and its profits were less than $2,700,000. Then it made 15 cents profit on every message it sent; now it makes 16. The capital stock of the Western Union is $80,000,000 and it has exclusive contracts with the international cable companies, operating eight Atlantic cables. In comparison with it the other companies are nothing. The Mutual Union Company has only $10,000,000 stock and only 8000 miles of line. The American Rapid has $3,000,000 stock and 800 miles of line, the Baltimore and Ohio 2660 miles of line, the Postal Telegraph Company 1000 miles and the Bankers and Merchants telegraph has only 28[illegible] miles of line, and its stock is only $1,000,000.

Yesterday, in New York, currency was given to a story that it had been reported in Portland Oregon that Mr Villard had failed. No such report was circulated here, nor is there, so far as we are able to learn any diminution of confidence in Mr Villard's position. Advices from New York state that his financial standing was never stronger than now. A heavy run has been made by the bears on Oregon and Transcontinental, but the partial recovery of the stock shows that the worst of it is over. There is money in hand to complete the Northern Pacific, and ample earnings are assured to meet its obligations.

It is proper to say again to the farmers and warehousemen of the country that too much care cannot be given to preparing their grain for shipment. The condition of our product as it is put on the market has much to do with its reputation and price and it is of course the desire of all to maintain a high standard. It is not always sufficient to have "run" the grain through a cleaner. It should be put through, not with the effort to score as big a run as possible, but with the effort to get it clean. It pays to do the work well.

General W T Sherman, who is now on his last official tour is expected to arrive in this city next week accompanied by a distinguished party. Our people will desire, of course, to mark his visit by a suitable reception. Arrangements are being made at Vancouver barracks for a celebration of his arrival there.

Occupations of Women

Harper's Magazine.

Forty three or forty four years ago Miss Harriet Martineau is reported to have said that in Massachusetts one of the most highly civilized and advanced communities in the world there were but seven industries open to women who wanted to work. They might keep boarders or set type or teach needlework or tend looms in cotton mills or fold and stitch in bookbinderies. This statement was rather too definite, because there were other forms of labor open to them especially those of the needle. But there is no doubt that the opportunities of self support for women by honest industry in some other way than that of domestic service were very few and very limited. The tendency of society under the exclusive control of man has been to restrict unmarried women to the lowest kinds of drudgery or to the highest forms of luxurious idleness. There has been extreme impatience of all efforts for the emancipation of women. But the most resolutely contemptuous sneerer at strong minded women, and the most doughty foe of the cry of woman's rights, as if it were the slogan of the destruction of the essential feminine charm, a kind of war upon nature itself must admit that whether the discussion be regarded as a cause or a mere attendant phenomenon of progress due to other causes it is during this discussion that the opportunities of women have greatly enlarged and the general view of the relation of women to society has greatly changed.

In the state of Massachusetts which was the scene of Miss Martineau's reputed observations it is now announced that there are 284 occupations open to women instead of seven and that 251,158 women are earning their living in these occupations receiving from $100 to $3000 each every year. This computation does not include amateurs or mothers and daughters in the household and of course excludes domestic service. Such figures show the great [illegible] approaches of the sex toward that better [illegible] which is the long bear of some sensitive souls now wring their hands with apprehension lest the restless development of society should deprive it, to change Charles Lamb's word, of womanhood at any women.

Presentiment

Utica Observer July 11.

In the year 18[illegible] the late James S Thorn who was the city editor of this paper was lying upon his death bed slowly succumbing to the inroads of that fatal disease consumption. The intelligence was brought to the office that he could not possibly last more than a day or two longer. He was a man of such genial and loving qualities and had so tenderly entwined himself around the hearts of all his associates that no one could endure the thought of writing his obituary in advance of his death and yet it was quite important if not imperative that a proper memorial should be prepared ready for insertion in the paper at a moment's notice upon the receipt of the news of the death of our young and talented friend and associate. One after another declined to write the obituary until it was finally determined that Abram Fonda an editorial writer on the paper, should perform the melancholy task. Mr Fonda accordingly began it, omitting the introduction and was engaged some time upon the work when the writer of this paragraph who occupied a chair in front of Mr Fonda's table turned around and inquired how he was getting along. He replied that he was not progressing satisfactorily, that it was a harder task than he had anticipated and then went on with his work. Instantly as quickly as thought could frame the expression there flashed through the brain of the writer these words "Old fellow, you'll die before Thorn does!" And he did. That night after retiring Mr Fonda arose for some purpose went to an open window in his room, and fell headlong out of it to the sidewalk below. In the morning he was found lying upon the ground speechless and insensible. He died at 9 o'clock in the forenoon of the day. Mr Thorn survived until nearly noon. The hand that writes this wrote the introduction and close of the obituary of Mr Thorn that Mr Fonda began and also wrote a hasty tribute to the memory of the latter.

The great pain cure, St Jacobs Oil, is the wonder of the century. It conquers pain.

CREAM.

TWO METHODS OF PRESERVING IT:

One is Uncertain; the other Certain.

"Prof S. W. Johnson, of Yale College and the Conn. Agricultural Experiment Station, says: 'REX MAGNUS Does All that is Claimed for It.'"

Cream, says Webster the Dictionary man, is the best part of anything; the unctuous oily substance which rises and forms on the surface of milk. As is well known it is the most delicate and therefore the most perishable of all farm products.

To save cream it has heretofore been deemed necessary to churn it and thus convert it into butter which in turn will ultimately turn rancid. This one mode of preservation therefore must be called UNCERTAIN.

Let us examine the other and comparatively modern process which SAVES cream and for an ALMOST INDEFINITE time enables it to retain all of its natural flavor and sweetness, a cheap, practicable and in deed, THE PANACEA so long sought by scientists, dairymen and the cream consuming public. The Rex Magnus, the Humiston Food Preservative that will do it for either cream or milk, as well as meats, poultry and food of all kinds.

A SOLID TEST.

Prof Samuel W Johnson the noted chemist of the Scientific Department of Yale College procured cream from a farm three miles north of New Haven, Conn. It had been collected and saved from FIVE MILKINGS of the three days previous, and was therefore BEING SO MIXED VERY difficult to keep.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

A pint of this was treated with Pearl, a special brand of Rex Magnus, adapted specially for the preservation of cream. After treatment it was placed in a glass jar and sealed at 3 o'clock of the afternoon of January 31st, 1883, and at 5 P M (or two hours later) OF THE SAME DAY, THE UNTREATED PORTION OF THIS CREAM WAS FOUND TO BE SOUR.

SEVENTEEN DAYS' TEST.

At the banquet held at the New Haven House 17 days thereafter (long enough to send all over Europe) this jar of treated cream was opened and the contents were, with the exception of a slight mold on top, found to be PERFECTLY NATURAL AND SWEET, whilst it rendered the coffee [illegible]. The average temperature of the apartment (Prof Johnson's private laboratory) in which this cream underwent this test was 70 deg. Fahr.

PROF S W JOHNSON'S ENDORSEMENT.

He had, of course, exclusive control of his experiment with cream, as well as all kinds of meat, etc, and the following is the pith of his report, cutting out the details:

THIRTY FIVE DAYS' TRIAL.

"My test (35 days in daily mean temperature of 70°) on meats, cream, etc. brought in open market have certainly been severe and I am satisfied that the different brands of Rex Magnus, The Humiston Food Preservative with which I have experimented have accomplished all claimed for them. [illegible] So far as I have yet learned, they are the only preservatives that are effective and at the same time practicable, for domestic use.

Rex Magnus is safe, tasteless, pure, and Prof Johnson says in his report: I should anticipate no evil results from its use and consider it as [illegible] harmless than common salt."

CITY.

FIRE AND A FIGHT.—Fire broke out about 6 o'clock last evening in the sawdust-lined wall of the [illegible] room of W. P. Lewis & Co.'s sash and door [illegible], at the corner of [illegible] and North Front streets, caused by the pipes conveying hot air to the room being too highly heated. An alarm was turned in from box 16, at the Clarendon, and the employes of the establishment at once [illegible] on the fire from a plug, attached a stream on the Hydraulic Company's main. The fire was under control when the fire department arrived. When an OREGONIAN reporter reached the scene it was extinguished, and he found one of the proprietors [illegible] wet and very mad. He stated that when Assistant Engineer Kiernan arrived with an engine he ordered the man, who was playing a stream upon the fire, to take off his pipe—that is, to stop playing on the fire. The man refused, whereupon Kiernan [illegible] him by the throat. Mr. Lewis went to his assistance, when several firemen attacked him. Then policeman Henline came to the front and [illegible] a stop to the melee, all hands getting well wet in the struggle. Mr. Lewis was much enraged at the affair, and it did seem a very strange thing that a man should be attacked while endeavoring to extinguish a fire on his own premises with his own [illegible]. The reporter, however, interviewed [illegible] Jordan, who fully sustains the action of Kiernan. He says the fire department is paid to [illegible] fires in this city. They do [illegible] to know when they see a man trying to put it out, whether he owns the building or not, or whether he has any right to be there. The firemen are responsible to the city and must attend to their duty. [illegible] wished to see where the fire was, and ordered the employe who was playing a stream upon the fire to turn it aside for a moment to allow him to make the inspection. Had he done so there would have been no trouble. It [illegible] be seen by this that no [illegible] can be allowed to undertake the extinguishment of fire on his premises alone when the fire department is at hand. Other people's property is endangered, they expect the department to save [illegible]. There can be no question as to the authority of the officers of the fire department to take control of the management of fires within the city limits. It would give us much pleasure to reconcile the views of Mr. Lewis & Co. and the officers of the fire department, but he has neither time nor space. It [illegible] a fire on this same building some time ago Kiernan was severely hurt by a falling rafter.

ARRIVALS AND PREPARATIONS.—The Sherman party reach Victoria on the 20th inst. and go at once to Vancouver, arriving there upon the 23d. From there to Tacoma the party will have a special [illegible], stopping over to visit Fort Townsend and points of interest on the Sound. This steamer [illegible] at Tacoma on the morning of the 23d, whence a special train takes the party to Kalama. The [illegible] conveys them thence to Vancouver, [illegible] placed at their disposal for the occasion. General Miles has made elaborate preparations for the reception of his guests, which will be done with a military salute and all honors of the post. On the 24th there will be a grand review of troops and the officers and [illegible] guests will pay their respects to General Sherman. In the evening a general reception will be held, which will be the greatest ever given in the department. Invited guests from this city will be taken to Vancouver free of all cost by the steamer [illegible], which will make a special trip from the foot of Morrison street at 7:15 P. M. This opportunity given to the people to pay their parting respects to the general of the army on this his last official visit should be neglected by no one. The military [illegible] will render all assistance to make the reception one of the grandest representations ever seen. General Morrow has tendered the [illegible] the Twenty-first infantry band for the occasion. It is now proper for the people of Portland to come forward and give the grand old hero a reception in this city that he will ever remember and will be a credit to this section. The G. A. R., other organizations, civil and military, should [illegible] on this occasion with the citizens to [illegible] the necessary arrangements. Let a time for public reception be set, either on Saturday or Monday evening next, as may be most convenient to [illegible] Sherman. Major A. S. Kimball has signified his willingness to transport any committee that may be appointed to Kalama on the special boat that goes down to receive the general, there to meet him and consult with him as to his convenience and as to when the reception should take place.

KNOCKED DOWN AND ROBBED.—At an early hour yesterday morning, James Gallatley, first officer of [illegible], now lying at the foot of Washington street, was attacked by some men, who knocked him down and robbed him of his watch and money. The scene of the robbery was upon Flanders's wharf, near where the ship Titania lies. Gallatley has been drinking during the evening, and while still somewhat under the influence of liquor, wandered down upon the wharf, thinking it was the one at which his ship was moored. He says he was conscious of being followed but was too drunk to suspect any sinister motive. Before he knew what was going on two men struck him with a slungshot, knocking him over the edge of the upper dock, from which he fell to the lower floor, a distance of eight to ten feet. In the fall his left leg below the knee was broken in two places, and his body otherwise considerably bruised. The robbers followed their victim up, and seizing him [illegible] him into silence by threatening to kill him if he made any resistance. They took the watch from his person and searched his pockets for money, taking what they could find. As Gallatley had been spending considerable for liquor during the day, he thinks he did not have much left in his pockets—$2 or $3 probably. After satisfying themselves that the drunken man had no more valuables upon him they hastily decamped, giving Gallatley a parting warning not to cry out if he valued his life. The robbed and wounded man, not able to move by reason of his broken leg, not daring to call for help, lay where he fell till after daylight when he was discovered by some of the sailors of the ship. They had him removed to his ship, where he now lies waiting removal to the marine hospital. The wound made by the slungshot is not a severe one, but the injuries received in the fall will confine him to his bunk for some time. There is no clue to the thugs.

A [illegible].—Very few looking at the building erected for W. S. Ladd, at the corner of Columbia and Seventh streets, would ever imagine that it was intended for a stable. The beauty of the design and the continues of the ornamentation would lead one to suppose it was intended for some other purpose. The building is 48x65 feet, with a fine walled cellar beneath, 40x48 feet in size. The structure combines the Gothic, Italian, Swiss, Pagoda styles, and just baffles description, and [illegible] ornament, the structure, each of [illegible] design. The best material and workmanship has been employed to carry out the designs of Mr. Sherman, and the building attracts the attention of all who see it, and is an ornament to the city. It contains stalls for the horses, carriage and harness rooms on the first floor, and the second story is fitted up as the residence of the coachman and his family, rooms being furnished with gas, water and all modern improvements. It furnishes another example of the good taste displayed by Mr. Ladd in directing building. The view of the building is obstructed by the scrub maples in front, which compare with [illegible] on the opposite side as an Eskimo with a well bred gentleman. They will probably be removed. Mr. Ladd takes much pleasure in watching the progress of his latest fancy. As he has the taste and abundant means to gratify it, he [illegible] pleasure himself by erecting a fine stone [illegible] which would give his ample scope to display both, and which would serve in years to come as a monument.

SPECIAL POLICEMEN.—In the appointment last night of T. J. O'Neil as special policeman, to serve at the Chinese theater, the vexed question of "specials" again arose. A motion was made to [illegible] the appointment. It was opposed by Councilman Adams on the ground of illegality. The new charter does not authorize the appointment of special policemen, except in cases of emergency, and then for five days only. Police powers have been conferred on several reputable night watchmen, who [illegible] allowance of a nominal salary of one [illegible] month, but the quota of regular policemen is defined by ordinance in full, barring the temporary vacancies caused by promotions. The appointment, after much discussion, was referred to the committee on health and police and committee on judiciary. With the opposition evinced by the new chief of police against "specials" it looks as if some of them will be reduced to the rank of simple watchmen.

[illegible] ADJOURNMENT.—The examination of Mr. Semler, charged with arson, was concluded in the police court yesterday. The testimony of the [illegible] summoned by the state presented a number of apparently very suspicious circumstances connected with the affair. The statements of Mr. Semler and his wife, however, seemed to explain many of these circumstances. The presence of the oil in a lamp in the barrel of rubbish in which the fire originated was owing to the fact that the lamp had come near exploding and a portion of it had been thrown out of doors. When Mr. Semler was cleaning up the yard, preparatory to moving, he threw the lamp into the barrel. Mrs. Semler testified that she had placed some ashes in the barrel and it was possible that there were some coals among them which set the fire. The matter was taken under consideration by the judge.

SIGNS AND COLORS.—The æsthetic craze has at last struck the Chinese, judging from the style in which they are painting up the building on Second street opposite No. Two's engine house. The numerous colors used in green, and, compared with the appearance of the building [illegible] (before its youthful innocence) would suggest a [illegible] sober garb. Golden signs with the letters in green signs with golden characters adorn the windows, [illegible], vermillion, and paints of many colors adorn the window frames, columns, while the building is painted to represent natural marble. The [illegible] on the iron work are painted natural or rather unnatural colors, and the [illegible] which ornament the tops of columns look like Chinamen. Oh, the building is lovely, and is a pattern to all American decorators.

[illegible] CLOSED.—G. Shindler & Co. have commenced in the state circuit court against the firm of [illegible], Muller & Hossmann, for the sum of [illegible]. The last named firm were engaged in the manufacture of furniture at the time of the last fire, which destroyed the Richmond and Vicconi [illegible] and they lost nearly all their property. With the insurance money they supplied to them [illegible] and opened another shop on [illegible] street, between Fifth and Sixth. Shindler & Co. were not satisfied in the division of the insurance money and began suit. An attachment was gotten and served by Sheriff Sears yesterday, closing up the shop.

THE CITY TREASURER.—J. O. McKercher, city treasurer, leaves to-night to attend the Knights Templar Conclave, and will be absent until the end of the month. He has appointed Ed. Backhurst as deputy during his absence and all having business connected with the office, will be accommodated at [illegible] office.

WILL NOT PAY.—The saloon keepers who have paid their license for the last two quarters, without any benefit to themselves, will not donate any coin to the city at the beginning of the next quarter. They very justly claim that if others are allowed to keep saloons without paying, they might as well enjoy the same privilege. Some of the unlicensed fellows have put all property out of their hands to avoid payment of their fines, and many more have no property wherewith to pay one. So whisky should grow cheaper and dives should multiply and our citizens enjoy the full benefit of such a state of affairs. With the completion of the railroad we may expect the arrival of some tough characters who will rejoice to find the city run in a manner to suit them. But it will not be so pleasant for the respectable portion of the community.

SMALL FIRE.—At 11:60 o'clock yesterday morning an alarm was turned in from box 4, corner Hall and First streets, caused by a slight blaze in the roof over the kitchen of a small cottage, No. 370 First street, between Mill and Montgomery. Within fifteen minutes after the smoke of the fire was first discovered three engines and the hook and ladder truck were on the ground and the fire was extinguished. The building was owned by Felix Landers and occupied by Mrs. M. E. Willoughby. The fire originated from a defective flue and damaged the ceiling and roof to the amount of $50, which is fully covered by insurance. Mrs. Willoughby was baking pies for dinner at the time the fire started, which work she concluded to postpone for another day, after the fireman had wet down her dough.

INVITATION TO SCHOOL CHILDREN.—The committee appointed by the board of trade to arrange for the coming celebration over the completion of the Northern Pacific, cordially invite all pupils of the high school and grammar schools of the city to participate by forming a grand musical chorus. Prof. T. H. Crawford, city superintendent, requests that these pupils will meet him to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Masonic hall for this purpose. The committee wish the chorus to contain at least 300 voices. Prof. G. W. Jackson will have charge of the music and the training of the chorus. A prompt response to the above on the part of the pupils will be highly appreciated by the committee. Parents are also requested to co-operate.

WARNING TO DRIVING PARTIES.—The county judge of Clackamas county complains that people from Portland taking pleasure jaunts into the country drive over the Clackamas bridge at a high rate of speed, although the law is very strict against driving faster than a walk. The reason assigned for these repeated violations is that there has been no one to watch and arrest the offenders. Hereafter a deputy constable will be stationed at or near the bridge and the law will be strictly enforced without fear or favor. This action becomes necessary in order to protect the public property of the county and to prevent the extravagancy of the people's money simply for the convenience of the outside traveling public.

THE PARADE.—General Henry A. Morrow, commander of the Twenty-first infantry, has kindly accepted the invitation to act as grand marshal of the celebration parade, and has entered into the work with his accustomed zeal and intelligence. He was in the city yesterday making preliminary arrangements. At his suggestion the programme of having the guests in carriages form part of the parade was abandoned. A grand stand for their accommodation will be erected in the vacant lot at the intersection of First, A and Vine streets, diagonally opposite Wells, Fargo & Co.'s. From this point First street from the Clarendon hotel to Hall street, will be in plain view.

NO RELIEF YET.—For the present the city council is too busy with other matters to pass an ordinance which will abate the nuisance of the two Chinese theaters, which run after twelve o'clock. Several attempts have been made but in some way or other every effort has either conflicted seriously with other matters, or proved inadequate to meet the exigencies of the case. Another herculean, final effort will be made when the licenses for the present quarter have expired. In the meantime, nervous persons living within four blocks of the theaters, must endure as best they can the unendurable din produced by the stringed instruments of torture.

NEW STAGE TERMINUS.—Mr. John Hailey, Jr., assistant superintendent of the Utah, Idaho and Oregon stage line, is in the city with his bride. He informed an OREGONIAN reporter that, commencing next Monday, the stages for Pendleton, Baker City, Boise City and Kelton would leave Blue Mountain station, instead of Walla Walla, thus shortening the stage ride twenty miles. So soon as the Baker City branch of the O. R. & N. line reaches Meacham's, stages will connect there instead of Pendleton. Mr. Hailey reports prosperous business on all the lines in the northwest controlled by his father and himself. He leaves for Boise City this morning.

BREAKING UP HOUSEKEEPING.—Mrs. Glenn, who has of late achieved much notoriety by her frequent appearance in the police court, was up there again yesterday for examination on a charge of malicious injury to personal property. She is accused of smashing a piano, wrecking a clock, cutting up lace curtains, etc., the property of "another." As Mrs. G. was about to leave town, she probably thought she might as well "break up housekeeping" in finished style, and had the property been her own, no objections could have been raised. The examination was carried on till nearly 6 o'clock last evening, when the court adjourned.

RAILROAD GARNISHEED.—Ellis G. Hughes having begun suit in the state circuit court against the Oregonian Railway Company, limited, for the sum of $4500 and taken out a writ of attachment, the sheriff has taken into his possession the east half of block 71, between Madison and Jefferson streets, on which is situated what is known as the American Exchange dock. The Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, which is supposed to owe moneys to the other company, has also been garnisheed by Mr. Hughes, in the hope of getting the sum he sues for in that way.

HOTEL CLOSED.—The Gray Eagle hotel, owned by Captain Love and run by Carl Krishin, situated on the corner of Front and Market streets, was closed yesterday by virtue of a writ of attachment taken out by Dodd Brothers, butchers. The suit was only for a small amount, being for meat furnished, but it burst the landlord. Inasmuch as it was the furniture and not the hotel that was attached, the goods were all moved out and stored upon the American Exchange dock. The hotel will probably be opened by some other party in a short time.

CONCERNING THE REWARD.—Last night A. B. Singleton presented to the city council a bill for $200, being the reward offered by ex-Chief of Police Luppens for the arrest and conviction of "Hank" Farber, alias Lewis, alias McKoe, who shot policeman James Barry last October. Singleton secured the man in the San Quentin penitentiary and brought him here on a requisition. Payment was deferred until inquiry could be made as to whether the reward was offered personally by the ex-chief or by authority of the police committee.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.—Mike Zeller, barkeeper in Louis Rechenberger's saloon, took a buggy ride with two daughters of his employer on Tuesday afternoon, and when about two miles out from the city on the Macadam road, the horse became frightened at a band of cattle and ran away. The buggy capsized and poured its occupants down an embankment. All three were considerably bruised, but none seriously, while the vehicle was made almost a total wreck.

LIQUOR CASES AGAIN.—In the case of the City of Portland vs. Oliver Besson for selling liquor without a license—the test case upon which depends over a hundred others—the city attorney will appear in the state circuit court this morning and ask that a judgment be entered, which will be granted at once. The attorney for the whisky men have decided to appeal the case to the supreme court.

NEW INDUSTRY.—Yesterday a small boy with a small hand wagon was toting around a load of old fruit cans filled with small snail shells. In answer to the inquiries of a reporter, the boy said that every day he gathered several quarts of the shells on the east side of the river, and found ready sale for them at 15 cents a quart to ladies who used them for decorating work boxes.

SENT TO JAIL.—H. M. Bird, charged with breaking into trunks of fellow-lodgers in an Albina boarding-house had an examination before Justice White yesterday, and was sent to the county jail to await the action of the grand jury in default of $800 bonds.

DR. LINDSLEY'S LECTURE.—This evening at the Presbyterian church, corner of Washington and Third streets, the usual mid-week meeting will be held, commencing at quarter before 8 o'clock.

SATURDAY NIGHT BOAT.—The Lurline will leave as usual Saturday evening for Astoria, making connections to and from the seaside resorts.

PERSONAL.

M. T. Mulkey returned yesterday from the beach looking brown and healthy.

T. H. Ogilbe left by last night's steamer en route to Philadelphia. He will be absent about two months.

Mr. George Ellis of Galesville, who has been visiting in Portland during the past few days, returned home yesterday.

His Honor Mayor Chapman returned from Ilwaco, where he enjoyed a short rest from official duties, in time to preside at the city council last evening.

Wm. Braden came home last evening from an extended trip in the Shoalwater bay country. The fish stories he tells take two men to believe them.

Miss Frankie Myers, daughter of Geo. T. Myers of this city, returned by the Columbia from the eastern states where she has been visiting friends for the past eighteen months.

Sheriff Sears was back in his office yesterday, looking as brown as a berry, and declaring that there was nothing that made a man feel so much like work as a trip to the seaside.

Mr. George Robinson of San Francisco, manager of the Elite gallery, the famous amateur athlete of the Olympic club, who had the set-to with Slade, is in the city on a visit of pleasure.

Oscar Vanderbilt, general traveling agent of the C. R. I. & N. Co., located at Chicago, arrived by the Northern last night. Though young in years, Mr. Vanderbilt is old in experience, and fills the duties of his position with much ability.

COMMUNICATION FROM CHIEF WATKINDS.

To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council of the city of Portland: GENTLEMEN—I beg to call your attention to the fact that the record of the arrests and fines under my predecessor have not been posted and balanced since February 25, 1883.

Neither has there been any entry of the record of births since April 3d, 1881, nor any in the record of deaths since January 31, 1883.

In this connection, I will add that on my entry into the office I found it an established rule that the captains of police were charged with the duty of collecting the fines and depositing them during the month in an old and insecure safe in the office and of turning the money over to the police judge at the end of the month.

The law does not seem clear as to whose duty it is to collect these fines, and as from $2000 to $3000 pass through the safe each month in that way, I would like to be instructed by the council in the premises. But if it is the duty of the captains of police to collect and retain them, I would suggest that they should be required to give bonds. They are in no sense my deputies, as I have neither the power of appointment or removal. It seems to me under the amended charter, that it is the exclusive duty of the police judge to collect the fines, except when an execution issues. At any rate, in view of the uncertainty of the matter and the loose condition of that department, I feel it my duty to submit the facts to the council to take such action as may appear to them best.

I also recommend the abolition of the special police system, to the end that the rules for the good order and morality of the city should be properly enforced. These specials generally receive pay from the lawless element and the amount of their pay depends on the extent of their unfaithfulness to the city.

At his own request I suspended B. F. Goodwin, the acting clerk, from the police force on the 27th of July and since that time his place has been filled by John A. Neill by my appointment. He has performed his duty fairly fully and is an efficient officer.
W. H. WATKINDS, Chief of Police.

The message was referred to the committee on health and police.

LEGAL CONUNDRUM.

CENTERVILLE, Aug. 9.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

How long does an open book account run in this state before it outlaws? And notes? Having had a low argument about this, and finding four out of five attorneys disagree, have concluded to abide by your decision, which we request you to give us through your valuable columns; whereby you will greatly oblige,
A SUBSCRIBER.

P. S.—We mean a book account as is usually run from harvest to harvest between a farmer and merchant.

Feeling flattered by the express determination of "A Subscriber" to abide by THE OREGONIAN'S decision, the young man to whom the above communication was turned over, brought all his brain force to bear upon the question and spent much time in perusing law books treating of the subject. The more he studied however, the farther he was from arriving at any conclusion. He then applied to a number of his legal acquaintances, who unlike the attorney alluded to above, were unanimous in declining to give any opinion on the matter unless they receive a quid pro quo. The inquirer had better apply to the best lawyer in his vicinity and take chances of obtaining the correct answer.

N. B.—If any lawyer who is not overburdened with business, or whose opinions are not yet marketable, wishes to furnish the information desired by Subscriber, THE OREGONIAN will be pleased to furnish space for its publication.

ANOTHER STREET RAILWAY.

Franchise Granted Last Night to Geo. W. Weidler and Robt. Irving for Two Long Lines.

Under the third reading of ordinances in the city council last night, the ordinance granting to Geo. W. Weidler and Robt. Irving the right to construct and operate street railways on certain streets in this city, came up. It had come from the committee on streets and public property, with a recommendation that it pass, with certain slight amendments as to direction, by the committee. There was also an amendment, which declared that the new company should not interfere with certain rights granted to the Multnomah Railway Company (the Portland end of the proposed Vancouver railroad—not the Washington street line), and to D. F. Leahy, L. W. Bates and associates. The routes as originally proposed are as follows:

Beginning at the intersection of Second and H streets south on second street to Morrison; west on Morrison to Fifth; south on Fifth to Jefferson; west on Jefferson and the Canyon road to the city park.

Also, commencing at the intersection of North Front and D streets; west on D to North Eighteenth; thence north to E; thence west to the Balch county road; thence northerly to North Twenty-second street; thence along Twenty-second street to P; thence east on P to North Eighth street; thence south to D street. Subject to the usual conditions; at least one mile of the line to be finished in 1884, and one mile each year thereafter; read twice and referred to committee on streets.

Adams moved the ordinance be read a third time and placed on its final passage.

Sears objected, on several grounds. First, he thought it unwise to permit a double track to be laid through streets sixty feet wide, and the franchise gave the option of single or double track. A remonstrance had been submitted by many residents of Second street, and this should have a respectful consideration by the council. The ordinance gave to the company the right over portions of Morrison and North Eighth streets, which had already been granted to the Multnomah Railway Company, and this might lead to expensive litigation, or the occupancy of the entire width of the street by railway tracks. He had been assured by one of the officers of the Multnomah Company that the company had negotiated for a loan of $100,000 with which to build the road, and that the papers were now ready for signature. It was of more importance to the city to have a railroad connecting with Vancouver than to have one entirely within the city. Granting the franchise now asked might prevent getting the loan and an important enterprise would thus be stopped. The Multnomah Company had until January 1 to construct the line, and the streets in question should not be granted to another company until the present grantees had forfeited their rights.

Adams answered that the people out Jefferson street toward the canyon and along North Eighth street and the northwestern suburbs wanted street railroads and he was in favor of accommodating them. He did not think the Multnomah Company could establish their proposed enterprise because they had no way of crossing the Willamette river.

Seneca Smith, attorney for the Multnomah Company, was granted permission to address the council with reference to the suit over the Albina ferry; he said that Judge Stott had decided that the man to whom the license was first granted were entitled to continue the ferry, and as they were interested in the company, it would supply the connecting link between Vancouver and Portland. He asked that the council keep faith with the company he represented.

After further discussion, the ordinance was passed by a vote of six to one—Sears voting in the negative.

BRIEF MENTION.

First Officer Hall, of the Queen of the Pacific, came up by the Oregon, as first mate for that trip only.

A telegram yesterday announced that the Northern Pacific track reached a point fifty-two miles east of Missoula.

Henry Fox of Oswego, Illinois, and Geo. Bellen of Chicago, passed through Missoula yesterday bound for Portland.

A local branch of Bradstreet's commercial agency is shortly to be opened in this city, with Augustus C. A. Perks as manager.

A prominent lumber merchant of this city received 90,000 feet of lumber from the mill at Enterprise landing the other day.

Will C. King organized a lodge at Scappoose on Monday evening with thirty-four charter members. Mr. T. Creery is L. D. and Chas. E. Ramsey, W. C. T.

On Sunday evening Rev. Stephen Sever of San Francisco will deliver an address at Nonpareil hall, corner First and Madison. The subject selected is "The Second Visitation."

A most singular accident happened to one of the teams on the B street railway yesterday afternoon. The horses became scared, and one of them kicked his mate in the head, killing him instantly.

Frank Seed, whose leg was so badly torn some months ago by the bursting of an emery wheel, and who was seen on the streets a few days ago, is again laid up, having overexerted his slowly returning strength.

Neppach Bros. will remove to their new building in a few days. The store now occupied by them at the corner of Oak and First streets, has been leased from Henry Failing by John Finrar, who will open a cigar store there.

The oil paintings from the rink of Stuart, which are to decorate Saratoga hall, San Francisco, the headquarters of the Oregon Knights Templar during the conclave, were boxed and shipped by the steamer last night.

A man named Price, deck hand on the steamer Enterprise had his leg broken while that boat was lying at Astoria a few days since. He was unloading bricks from the steamboat and in some manner the bricks fell upon him.

Judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff yesterday, in the state circuit court, in the case of the Northern Pacific Terminal Company vs. Goldsmith & Loewenberg, whereby the former is given the right-of-way for a railroad through the lands of the defendants upon payment of $300.

In Justice Greene's court yesterday Joseph Ladd was examined on a charge of larceny preferred by one Fisher who complained that Ladd had stolen a pair of scissors. Ladd proved the scissors belonged to his mother, and was discharged. The examination developed a case of unnecessary petty prosecution.

Yesterday morning a fine, fresh southerly breeze sprung up, and during the day occasional little whirlwinds ran along some of the streets, raising columns of dust. The weather-wise once predicted rain, and late last evening a little shower fell, just enough to dampen the dust. There will be more by and by.

Complaint is made against the Transcontinental Street Railway Company that in laying their tracks on Third street they have torn up the plank crosswalks and have not fully supplied their place. They have laid a substantial stone crosswalk between the rails of each track, but the space between the two tracks is left vacant and is sure to prove a great inconvenience to pedestrians when the rains come. Some one will please explain how the matter is to be fixed up.

ANOTHER WRESTLING MATCH.

All reports to the contrary notwithstanding, the giant athletes, Donald Dinnie and D. A. McMillen, have had a quarrel in which each belittled the reputation of the other, and as a finality Dinnie has forced McMillen to accept his challenge to wrestle five styles, each to put up $250, and the winner to take the entire gate receipts. Fifty dollars forfeit money was put up yesterday, and the balance is to be put up on Saturday. With a view of removing any and all conditions that might handicap one or the other, this match will be wrestled in open air. Gambrinus park has been selected as the place and Sunday afternoon the time. The following formal agreement was signed by the parties in interest:

These articles of agreement between Donald Dinnie and D. A. McMillan are to the effect that the herein mentioned parties meet in public wrestling match on Sunday afternoon August 19, 1883, at Gambrinus park. The terms of the match are that Donald Dinnie and D. A. McMillan engage in a mixed contest of the five following styles: Græco-Roman, Scotch back-hold, collar and elbow, catch as catch can, and side-hold; the winner of the best two out of three and of three style, to take the stakes, the entire gate money and be considered the victor. The stakes are to be $250. Of this amount $100 has already been deposited, and the balance is to be placed in the hands of some reputable party mutually agreed upon by Dinnie and McMillan on the day preceding the match. In agreeing to these terms we affix our names and seals this 15th day of August, 1883, in the city of Portland.
DONALD DINNIE,
D. A. McMILLAN.

WHEN SHOULD TIMBER BEST BE CUT.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

Allow me to answer "Enquirer's" query. Timber should be cut during the fall of the sap. When young leaves and fruit are forming the sap is rising. As soon as the leaves are fully formed, and the fruit changes color, or in the case of pines, the cone becomes ripe, then is the time to commence felling, and continue doing so until the leaf buds begin to form again. The rising of the sap softens the timber, which, if felled when full of sap is apt to split in seasoning. Resinous woods, such as pine, form by the exudation of resin at their ends, a film which prevents the escape of sap, hence it is best to strip the bark from pine logs as soon as felled. In the case of hard woods it is best to quarter the logs through the center, as, if left entire, they are apt to split radially along the medullary rays. In the case of hard woods, if the size required will not admit of quartering, it is advisable to strip off the bark and smear the cut ends with cow manure. This, if left on for a few weeks, effectually prevents splitting. The superiority of timber cut in season over that cut out of season, will make ample amends for any loss of time caused by carrying out the practice systematically.

The Oregon Commandery K. T. Start on Their Pilgrimage to the Conclave, Attended by the Walla Walla Band.

At 9 o'clock last evening the Knights Templar who are to leave for San Francisco on the Oregon met at their asylum in Masonic Temple and marched in procession to the ship, preceded by the city band. The Knights in their handsome uniform and plumed hats presented a very fine appearance. There were thirty-three in the ranks, who when added to those who left on preceding steamers, will swell the Oregon delegation to a very respectable number. The splendid band of the 1st U. S. cavalry arrived from Walla Walla last evening in charge of Lieut. Pitcher and marched to the steamer, where during the evening they discoursed some fine music much to the delight of the passengers. As will be seen by the list in another column the passengers on the Oregon are numerous, every berth being occupied and twenty-five beds spread on the floor of the saloon.

The case was argued Tuesday, in the afternoon, and the judge took the matter under advisement. After going to-day and examining the milldam, Judge Boise granted the injunction, which will effect that the water be turned and not disturbed till the case is decided by the higher courts. Geo. H. Williams, J. J. Shaw and Geo. H. Burnett appeared for the Salem Flouring Mills Company and Tilmon Ford and C. J. McDougall appeared for the City of Salem Company.

MISHAP AT A HOTEL.

Michael Conley, in a Fit of Somnambulism, Walks Out of a Second Story Window, Striking upon the Pavement Twenty Feet Below.

About 5 o'clock yesterday morning Michael Conley, yard master of the Oregon and California railroad, east side division, walked from the window of his room in the St. Lawrence hotel, on Second street between E and D, upon the awning and thence fell to the pavement below, sustaining injuries that will probably result fatally.

During the previous evening Conley indulged quite freely in drink, retiring to his room in the hotel at a late hour. The room, located in the front of the building and from a single window, looks out upon the sloping awning that covers the sidewalk on Second street.

Con. Ryan, proprietor of the hotel, who was on night watch, was startled about 5 o'clock to hear a heavy thud upon the pavement without the office door and a deep groan immediately thereafter. He rushed out to see what was the matter. He discerned through the darkness of the night the form of a man lying prostrate upon the pavement. At first he thought him but simply a drunken man who had stumbled and fallen, but on approaching the fallen man he was pained and horrified when he discovered it to be his old friend Mike Conley, and was horrified when the fact dawned upon him that he had fallen to the pavement from the awning above. Calling for assistance Ryan was joined by Patrick McGinnis of the saloon across the way, and the two carried the senseless man back to his room. Dr. Wheeler was summoned as soon as possible, who, on examining his patient, found that besides a fracture of the right wrist the man had sustained serious and alarming internal injuries whose complications may terminate in death.

Conley, although not unconscious when picked up, could give no satisfactory account of the accident. The probabilities are that he fell asleep, overcome by the liquor he had drunk, and while in that somnambulistic condition had wandered out upon the awning and fallen off. The window to his room is some two feet above the floor and was but partially open. To get out of it would require of a man of Conley's size some little effort. The awning [illegible] of light, some had boards sloping gradually to the outer edge, which is unprotected by railing, and a man in his condition after getting upon the awning naturally well to the edge. As the edge is some twenty feet to the street and as the pavement upon which the unfortunate man fell is of the granite blocks known as the Belgian pavement, it is wonderful that he has not been killed outright by the fall.

Drs. Gaiewlin and Wheeler have attended upon him during the forenoon at his room in the hotel where he now lies suffering from severe pain. Conley is about 53 years of age and unmarried, having a family of grown up children, some of whom occupy responsible positions in business. He himself is an old railroad man, and has occupied the position of yard master on the east side for several years.

THE HISTORY OF LACE.

[illegible] by [illegible] Men and Women as an Adornment—Some Historical Specimens.

Philadelphia Record.

In the use of lace as an adornment women have been more faithful to their early loves than men, for up to the beginning of the present century it was as much worn by men as by women. Henry III. covered himself with [illegible] lace in gold and the Valois used it profusely. Bassompierre, Cinq Mars and other leaders of fashion of the court of Henry III. brought the extravagant use of lace to a climax. When gentlemen wore it as a decoration they adorned their gloves, falling collars, ruffs and aprons with it in [illegible]. Some [illegible] wore a rosette of it on their garters, a bow of it on their highlow boots, and it was converted into fancy buckles for low shoes. It has from early date been used on the covering of chalice altars, &c., and decorated the priest's alb and the prelate's rocket. Mrs. Bury Palliser speaks of the high esteem in which the church held lace, and of a [illegible] painting furnishing designs for biblical pictures, in which we see the mother, in anticipation of the return of the prodigal son, preparing for him a tippet trimmed with the richest point; the cloth virgins weeping with handkerchiefs bordered with it; the table-cloth of Dives, as well as the table-napkin used by his guest, ornamented in the same manner.

Laces made for women's use were properly designated for each change of the season, different wear of the day, and adapted to it. Under Louis XV. point d'Alencon and point d'Argentan, etiquette styled "winter laces," and even now ladies have little discernment who are not distinguish appropriate laces for morning or evening wear. Valenciennes, with its close ground work, is particularly adapted to handsome morning toilets. Narrow edgings are for linen outfits, and torchon for those seaside costumes that in elegant material ape the blue garb of the French peasant. Lace, properly considered, indicates by its trump [illegible] the smooth [illegible] in [illegible] the difference between the [illegible] and [illegible], and suggests the appropriateness [illegible] costumes, or [illegible] of [illegible] toilets.

Great antiquity is claimed by many for the origin of lace. [illegible] have carefully preserved [illegible] methods [illegible]. The first [illegible] to doubting that the origin of lace is purely Italian. The Venetians used ornaments [illegible] the effect of light and shade that the stars [illegible] dark, is [illegible] of each [illegible] of the wearer.

[illegible] took the English lace a piece of lace [illegible] Anglaterra, and [illegible] the [illegible] of the Invincible Armada by Elizabeth's fleet. It shows man-of-war bending before the wind, [illegible] and [illegible] with great delicacy. The [illegible] is acknowledged by all connoisseurs to be the richest and most beautiful of all laces. Elegant and fine, made entirely of linen thread, it has raised figures for ornaments.

Long after hand-made lace had enjoyed a life of popularity, machinery invaded the domain of lace-making. Tulle was the first [illegible] made. Many [illegible] efforts were made, which finally culminated, toward the end of the last century, in the bobbin loom. From this invention it became machine-moved by steam, weave upward of sixteen thousand meshes per minute, while a lace-maker, on an average, can produce but five or six meshes in the same time. Those wearing expensive hand-made lace can scarcely realize the labor employed in its manufacture. In traveling through Flanders, Normandy, or Auvergne, one often sees a ground floor filled with young girls, bending over their cushions, whisking innumerable bobbins around countless pins, twisting, crossing, interlacing them without a single mistake. In a word, making nearly 150,000 evolutions for a design of ten inches, amounting to twenty-seven movements in a minute.

Bassompierre says that the robe of the royal children of France in 1606 [illegible] extravagance [illegible] cost him 7000 crowns. The lace, which was manufactured for the occasion, was of exquisite texture, and each [illegible] weight of pearl. [illegible] D'Estrees [illegible] a lace handkerchief made for her, the price being 500 crowns. Many of [illegible] made the Medicis supplant the French [illegible] at the French capital. It was composed of lawn [illegible] lace, and on account of the [illegible] the back of the neck had to be supported on wire.

How He Bought His Wife.

[illegible] St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The most famous guide and interpreter during the Florida war was [illegible], he was alluded to. He was a negro born with the Indians, raised by them, and he had acquired all their cunning and knowledge of woodcraft, which made him conspicuously valuable to the government. He had a [illegible] knowledge [illegible], except after the custom of keeping accounts with bundles of sticks. He was well paid for his services, receiving, possibly, $150 per month, or [illegible] of money, but he never carried it about with him, and no one knew what he did with it.

At that time I owned a very [illegible] negro girl who served as maid for my wife. She was very handsome, of superb figure, and [illegible] had a fancy to her. [illegible] wanted to buy her. I said: "Why, [illegible], that girl cost me $1300, which is a great deal of money. You could not begin to pay for her." "[illegible], Lieutenant, I think I might. Dis nigger done saved money. I could pay [illegible]." I talked it over with the girl, and she was willing, so I agreed to sell her to [illegible] for what I paid, on condition that she should be legally married to her and treat her as his wife. This he consented to, and the next question was, where was the money to come from. When the time came for payment, [illegible] [illegible] and began digging in the sand.

He went down a couple of feet and brought forth a large beef bone, which he carried to my quarters and laid upon the table, saying, "Dar's de money, boss." The marrow had been extracted, and the hollow of the bone was packed full of gold pieces. I shook them out on the table and counted them, [illegible] keeping track of me with his bundles of sticks as well as he could. There was not enough. He started out and went to an abandoned building, and entered a room where there was a stove-pipe hole, and thrusting his hand in it pulled out more gold. Still it was short. He made another search, and the next time brought back an oyster can and completed the payment. [illegible] was very proud of his wife and they got along very comfortably.

"General" Booth, the head of the Salvation Army, [illegible] stock, a [illegible] of [illegible], though his [illegible] contains a streak of porphyritic [illegible]. In his ranks is a [illegible] Miss Courtenworth—a young lady of marriageable age, who has $350,000 in her own right. It is [illegible] that the young [illegible] "General" Booth's daughter [illegible] the [illegible] occurs it is quite safe to say that the branch of the "army" will be [illegible] included.

Dr. J. L. [illegible] says: "Brown's [illegible] Bitters [illegible] of practice."

[illegible] Carlic [illegible] to be [illegible] [illegible].

[illegible] invaluable dressing [illegible].

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

WEDNESDAY, Aug. 15.

All stocks except Western Union show an advance to-day, and it is plain that some strong effort is being made to prevent further break. A hard fight will be made by both sides. Transcontinental was formed, with $40,000,000 capital and holds 362,743 shares N. P. common, 151,300 preferred and 121,838 O. R. & N. Outside stocks of N. P. R. R. are 199,000 shares common and 419,091 shares preferred. Transcontinental holds about one-third of existing N. P. R. R. stocks. To-day's rise began yesterday afternoon in New York. Telegraphic orders have been sent from here to buy Transcontinental at about 60 if obtainable and it is thought the stock is a good one to keep.

Local markets are very quiet to-day. A large portion of the California fruit received is to be t order, causing loss to consignors or dealers. Tomatoes are in local receipt as well as from California and are being jobbed out at about $2 per box.

We learn of a sale of new wheat for milling at Albany at a price equal to $1 80 here. This is above the market for shipment. Business remains stagnant with shippers not disposed to bid up.

Freights continue firm, several 55s charters being reported from San Francisco. Nothing doing here.

Potatoes are in large stock and sales are being forced. Values are weak in consequence.

Eggs firmer and 30 cents is quoted by several houses to-day. Complaint reached us yesterday that we had quoted eggs 2½c above market one day last week. Our quotations are intended to represent the value of good merchantable lots and we were aware that some old stock had been sold at less, it is not our custom to quote above the market but rather so that consignees will not be disappointed.

The New York Commercial List says: "According to the estimates of the best authorities our wheat harvest will fall below that of last year (which was a little over 500,000,000 bushels), by some 75,000,000 bushels. Nevertheless, prices are very low, and all efforts for pushing them higher, both here and in the European markets have proved unavailing. Our other cereal crops promise a full average. The European crop reports are, as usual, conflicting. The state department at Washington is informed that Germany is likely to have better crops this year than in many years past. From England, Hungary, Russia and Italy the reports are also favorable and the indications point to a larger crop than Europe has enjoyed for a long time. Never before in the past twenty years has the price of grain been so low in Germany as now."

The California Jute Mill company commenced operations the 6th inst., at their works located at East Oakland, Cal. It is their intention not to confine themselves to grain bags only, but to branch out into all the various articles of jute manufacture required more and more by the expansion of the different descriptions of commercial, agricultural and mining interests on this coast.

The San Francisco Produce Exchange has agreed to adjourn from August 21 to August 27. The 24th will be a legal holiday. The above is the first organization to take action. It is presumed that the stock boards will take a similar course. An effort will be made to make Saturday, August 25, as well as the preceding Friday, a full holiday.

Receipts past 24 hours have been 533 bbls flour, 600 ctls oats, 114 ctls barley, 20 ctls mills off, 17,311 lbs wool, 255 lbs hides, 60 bxs eggs, 31 bxs fruit, 14 bxs butter, 1 lb bbls lime. Also 2627 ctls wheat from the eastern section.

Dear Bitters—I am here trying to breathe in all the salt air of the ocean, and, having been a sufferer for more than a year with a refractory liver, I was induced to mix Hop Bitters with the sea gale, and have found the tincture a glorious result. * * * I have been greatly helped by the Bitters and am not afraid to say so. Yours, without a struggle,

When baby has pain and dead of night,
Mother is in a fright, father in a plight;
When worms do bite, baby must cry,
If fever sets in, baby may die,
If croupy pains disturb her rest,
In that house there's no Castoria;
For mothers learn without delay,
Castoria cures by night and day.

Swift's Specific.

I have known and watched the use of Swift's Specific for over 50 years, and have never known or heard of a failure to cure Blood Poison when properly taken. I used it on my servants from 1850 to 1865, as did also a number of my neighbors, and in every case that came within my knowledge, it effected a cure. In all my life I have never known a remedy that would so fully accomplish what it is recommended to do.

H. L. DENNARD, Perry, Ga.

I have known and used Swift's Specific for more than twenty years, and have seen more wonderful results from its use than from any remedy in or out of the pharmacopoeia. It is a certain and sure antidote to all sorts of Blood Poison.

J. DICKSON SMITH, M. D.,
Atlanta, Ga.

The Great Drug House of Chicago.

We do not hesitate to say that for a year past we have sold more of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) than all other Blood Purifiers combined and with most astonishing results. One gentleman who used half a dozen bottles says that it has done him more good than treatment that cost him $1000. Another who has used it for a scrofulous affection reports a permanent cure from its use.

Ask the same physicians

"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia; constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malarial fever, ague, etc.," and they will tell you:

"Mandrake! or Dandelion!"
